Los Angeles Herald.

THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1876.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

A dense fog prevailed last night.

The Ancon arrived yesterday with 60 passengers and 200 tons of freight. Go to S. C. Foy's pioneer saddlery shop, 17 Los Angeles street, for everything in his line.

A new lodge of Odd Fellows will be instituted at Pomona next Saturday evening.

A complaint was entered in Justice Gray's Court yesterday against Juan Ramirez, charging him with stealing a coat belonging to H. M. Johnston.

The Sheriff's party has returned without finding any clue to the whereabouts of the man Lugo, who murdered Sotelo.

Elder J. W. Webb delivered a temperance lecture at the Fort Street Methodist church last evening, which was well attended.

We announce with regret the serious illness of Mr. J. D. Lynch, of the Express, who has an attack of typhoid fever.

Minnie Chauvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Chauvin, died of diphtheria yesterday. She was fourteen years of age, and one who was greatly beloved by all who knew her.

Mr. Chas. Brode is adding another store to his brick block on Spring street between First and Second. When this is completed he will have a fine frontage.

John Osborne has been appointed the regular baggage transfer agent of the S. P. R. Co., and all other parties will be prohibited from soliciting baggage on the cars, platforms or wharf.

Albert Shepard Judson, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Judson, died at Santa Monica yesterday. This is the second child lost by Mr. and Mrs. Judson within a week, and we sincerely sympathize with them in their terrible affliction.

Mr. C. Ducommun has one of the most extensive and best assorted stocks of fire works in the city. This includes fire crackers, Roman candles, Chinese lanterns, rockets, wheels, bombs etc. A full line of flags also on hand.

The charge against a Chinaman whose name is Ah something, accused of stealing a gold watch and chain belonging to Mrs. Lent, remains on Justice Gray's docket in statu quo, as the prosecuting witness fails to appear. A warrant has now been issued for Mrs. Lent to bring her into Court and secure her testimony.

We are requested to correct an error which has crept into some of the papers to the effect that the late Auditor Chas. W. Gould was a member of the Mutual Aid Association. The mistake probably originated from the fact that our citizens will award him a fair proportion of their patronage.

Mrs. C. B. Jones will open a select school at her room in the High School building next Monday for instruction in the grammar and intermediate branches. Mrs. Jones is a teacher of recognized ability, and we feel sure that our citizens will award her a fair proportion of their patronage.

George Gillette, a young man formerly engaged on the Evening Republican is wanted, to answer the charge of breaking open Mr. Brosmer's trunk and robbing it of its entire contents. George was up not long since for housebreaking but escaped sentence for want of evidence to convict him. He is a slippery character and will yet slide into the penitentiary.

H. A. Vacquier, the coffee and spice manufacturer, is moving his works to the roomy quarters corner of Fort and Fourth streets. Mr. Vacquier has developed a large trade by his untiring industry, and has gone a long way towards establishing home manufacture. The new establishment will be run by steam. Mr. Vacquier having purchased the Baxter engine formerly used in the Herald office, and which we found necessary to replace with one of more power.

Mr. Seymour, of the Grange Store, appreciating the perplexities and losses which our bee men have undergone in shipping their honey product to San Francisco, is using his best endeavors to open up a direct Eastern market. He has already shipped several cases of honey to Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and other cities where the demand promises to be good. We saw at his place yesterday some of the finest honey ever produced in Los Angeles county, and we feel convinced that if he succeeds in placing such an article before the people of the larger cities East of the Rocky Mountains he will reap a rich reward. Success to the enterprise.

Drowning out Gophers.

As we were coming down town after breakfast the other day we saw our friend Fitznozzle standing in his front yard with hose in hand playing into a mysterious little hole in the ground. Our curiosity was excited and we naturally stopped to make inquiries. He was irrigating by some newly invented subterranean process or vainly trying to squelch an imaginary fire, or working the hydrant for the fun of the thing, or what? "Only a gopher hole," said Fitz "and I'm going to fill it up or flood the whole of China, or run the reservoir dry or something." He had patiently pursued his task since five o'clock A. M. (Fitz is an early riser) and when he first started he thought to drown the gophers out in about five or ten minutes. After a couple of hours of steady hydraulicking he seemed hardly to have made an impression, for the water ran noiselessly down into the opening and disappeared forever. Of course Fitz's indomitable will was somewhat piqued and hence his dogged intention to inundate China, &c. Fitz didn't go down to his business that day but staid at home and took turns with his wife irrigating the gopher hole. When we passed on our homeward way in the evening the good work was still progressing, though we thought Fitz and his estimable wife showed marked signs of exhaustion. While we stood leaning on the fence and chatting with our friend on the prospects of his ultimate success, Fitz's little boy rushed round the house in great consternation. "Pa!" said he, "the cellar's plum full of water and the barrels 'n' boxes 'n' things is floating around like mad!"

Broom Making.

Mr. J. P. Woodward has thoroughly re-established his broom factory, on the corner of Fort and Fourth streets, which was burned down several months ago. We visited the establishment yesterday and found the work under full headway. Three regular broom machines are employed while three or four hands are kept busy sorting, preparing and manipulating the stock. Mr. Woodward deserves great credit for his persistent and courageous efforts to maintain this branch of manufacture in our city despite many obstacles and drawbacks. He now manufactures some sixty-five varieties of brooms, including every description known to the trade, and the workmanship and material of his goods are superior to most that are placed on the market. The competition with San Francisco houses is well maintained as the advantage of local production is in favor of Los Angeles. The bailing and shipping of the broom corn as well as the freight on manufactured goods is all obviated, and thus a better article can be furnished for the same price or less. The coming season, commencing with the harvesting and ending with the year's crop promises very favorably. Mr. Woodward has engaged some seventy-five acres of the corn which has been put in by leading farmers of the Puente, Duarte, Azusa, and other settlements, and he will give his personal attention to the raising of the crops. We trust that Mr. Woodward may in time reap a rich harvest from his enterprise, and not only supply our home market, but the trade of Arizona and our whole back country.

Judge Burdick had only two cases before him yesterday, which shows a decided reform in criminal matters. One individual was sent up for ten days, and the other paid a small fine.

Anaheim Items.

[From the Gazette of the 13th.] Census Marshal Guinn entered up on his duties yesterday afternoon.

A fight occurred near the depot on Sunday night. During the melee one of the contestants inserted his foot in the mouth of his opponent, and as a result his thumb was "chawed" up in a highly artistic manner. Several bids have been received by the Grange Association for the construction of their building at the depot, and the bids will be opened as soon as a quorum of the Trustees can convene. The building will be a two-story one, 30x70 feet, and will be located about 400 feet from the depot. The lower story will be for rent and the upper story will be used as a meeting place by the Grange.
